Role cards

The language teacher: Your students normally use AI to translate and practise languages. How will you teach them now?

The doctor: Your hospital uses AI to analyse medical information and organise appointments.

The international student: You have recently moved abroad and depend on translation tools to communicate.

The traveller: You are visiting a foreign country and rely on AI for directions, recommendations and translations.

The business owner: Your company uses AI to organise schedules, communicate with customers and manage orders.

The journalist: You work for an international news website. Your team uses AI to translate articles, check information and write news reports.
